JAGGED ICE CLOGS COLUMBIA—Shadows thrown by the late Monday afternoon sun serve dramatically to accent the jagged details of ice lining the shore of the Columbia River, while an almost solid mass of floes move downstream in the background toward the Interstate Bridge. (Columbian photo).